Stockholm, June 11, O. S.

ON the 8th Inſtant arrived here Melchior Guy Dickens, Eſq; his Britannick Majeſty's Miniſter to this Court, and this Morning he had his firſt Audience of his Swediſh Majeſty; to which he was conducted by M. Bergenſtierna, Vice-Maſter of the Ceremonies, and introduced by his Excellency Count Gyllenburg, Preſident of the Chancery. A few Days ago Proclamations were iſſued and ſent to the ſeveral Provinces of this Kingdom, ſummoning them to ſend their Deputies to an extraordinary Diet, which is appointed to be held here on the 20th of Auguſt next.

Plaintling in Bavaria, June 13, N. S. The 2d Inſtant we had Advice, that the Enemy were working with all poſſible Diligence at a Bridge at Platling, and that they had already finiſhed two Batteries for covering their Pioneers, and a Fort at the Head of the Bridge, and that they had placed their Gunners in a Chapel ſituated within a quarter of a League from thence. Thereupon Marſhal Khevenhuller ſet out privately the 3d Inſtant, at Two in the Morning, with an Eſcorte of 100 Horſe, and 250 Huſſars, and reconnoitred the Road of Oſtechoſen as far as Platling. Upon the firſt Appearance of our Huſſars the Enemy abandoned the Poſts on this Side of the River with great Precipitation. From thence his Excellency repaired to the ſaid Chapel, in order to have a clear View of the Enemy's new Bridge, who thereupon pointed two Cannon that Way, from which they made a continual Fire, and put his Excellency into ſo great Danger, that a Captain of Preyſing's Regiment of Dragoons had his Leg taken off as he ſtood cloſe by him, beſides which, we had ſix Men killed and five wounded thereby. The Marſhal however ſtaid there two Hours, and having obſerved that the Enemy had quitted all their Poſts beyond the Iſſer, returned in the Evening to the Camp. Not one of them now appears, not ſo much as their Patrole, but they go on intrenching themſelves Day and Night in their Camp near Altach, and Wintzer. This is confirmed by all their Deſerters, who come to us in great Numbers; and add, that thoſe Officers who fled in the laſt Action, and the Soldiers who threw away their Arms and Regimentals, have been ſeverely puniſhed: That they are under conſtant Alarms in the French Camp of our attacking them, and for that Reaſon keep their Horſes ſaddled, and their Men almoſt always under Arms, and that there was a great Diſtreſs and Mortality amongſt them.

From the Army before Modena, June 14, N. S.

On the 9th we began to bombard the Citadel, and on the 10th we opened the Trenches with no other Loſs than that of a Chirurgeon. On the 11th the Beſieged made a Salley, to the Number of 300 Men, who were repulſed. On the 12th our Bombs fell upon the Hoſpital of the Beſieged, and laid it in Ruins. On the 13th four large Battering Pieces arrived in the Camp, which have begun to play this Day, and we expect to receive twelve more of the ſame Kind in three Days from Mantua. The Duke of Modena remains at Ferrara, the Venetians being unwilling to receive him.

Vienna, June 19, N. S. This Court has received Advice of the Surrender of Pilſen, where there was a Magazine, and about 250 Men. Prince Charles is between that Place and Prague. Count Khevenhüller having left a very ſmall Garriſon in Munich, in order to have as many Troops with him as poſſible, ſeems to be meditating a Deſign upon M. d'Harcourt's Camp, though fortified in the ſtrongeſt Manner.

Copenhagen, June 23, N. S. His Danish Majeſty has promoted the Colonels Reitzenſtein, Sturop and Geiſſeler to the Rank of Majors General. Yeſterday the Regiment of Dombroich, the laſt expected, arrived here, and has reſtored this Garriſon to about the ſame Force it had before the Troops marched for Holſtein. The Deputies of Hamburgh, who were not able to enter upon their Negociation before the Progreſs, are likewiſe returned hither, and are ſolliciting to obtain an Audience of the King.

Duſſeldorp, June 26, N. S. The Marſhal de Maillebois is ſtill at Aix la Chapelle, and will not return hither till five or ſix Days hence; about which Time the Artillery, which is expected from Strasburgh, will begin to arrive here, and will be ſpeedily followed by the Pontons and Boats from Lorrain. The Government are preparing Quarters in the Dutchies of Juliers and Bergue, for the Reception of certain Companies of Imperial Dragoons, which have been raiſed
